

I learned about binomial distribution and how to find mean, variance and standard deviation using jupyter notebook. I took n=20 and p=0.05 and got the PMF graph. I understood that the graph shows the probability for every number of successes. Doing this in class, I got to know how binomial distribution works. The horizontal axis shows number of defects and vertical axis shows probability of each counts